Excellence . . .

ἀἰὲν ἀριστεύειν καὶ ὑπείροχον ἔμμεναι ἄλλων

HOMER

Always aim at excellence and be superior to the rest.

Excellence may be seen everywhere if one is attentive enough. It may be seen in the symmetry of a snowflake, in the perfect beauty of a precious gem, in the prism of a rainbow.

We may see, hear and touch excellence; we may even know what it takes to achieve it. The truth of the matter, though, is that few of us ever really do attain excellence in our own lives.

However, there is no reason to be dismayed, for being excellent is not the most important thing. It is the striving for excellence that makes us men and women of character.

May we all continue to strive for excellence, and may some of us have the good fortune to achieve it.

Dedication

As individuals must strive for their own personal excellence, they must also attempt to bring institutions such as Bloomfield College toward higher and higher degrees of excellence. Bloomfield College has been fortunate in having individuals who have made the achievement of excellence at Bloomfield part of their daily lives.

Of this group, one stands out above others. He has devoted an enormous amount of time to the College; and has been known to take very short vacations and to work very hard through the summers.

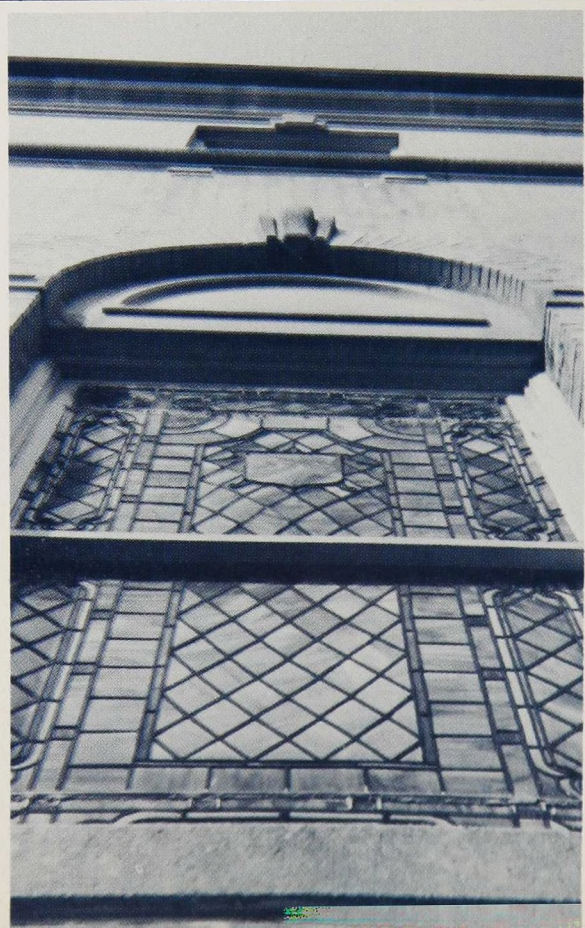

One of his major contributions to Bloomfield College develops from the fact that he is Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Curriculum and Instruction. In this position, he must constantly be aware of the capabilities of the College and the needs and capabilities of the students. He is responsible for consulting with each department and securing suggestions for the curriculum. It is his task also to bring recommendations for improvement to the faculty.

This man, of whom we speak, is now in his tenth year at Bloomfield College. In that time, he has edited the College Catalogue, directed the Evening Session for two years, and directed the Summer Session for the last three years. He has constantly been at work in bettering the Bloomfield College Library. He is head of the History Department.

We take great pride in dedicating the 1966 Saga to a man of excellence —

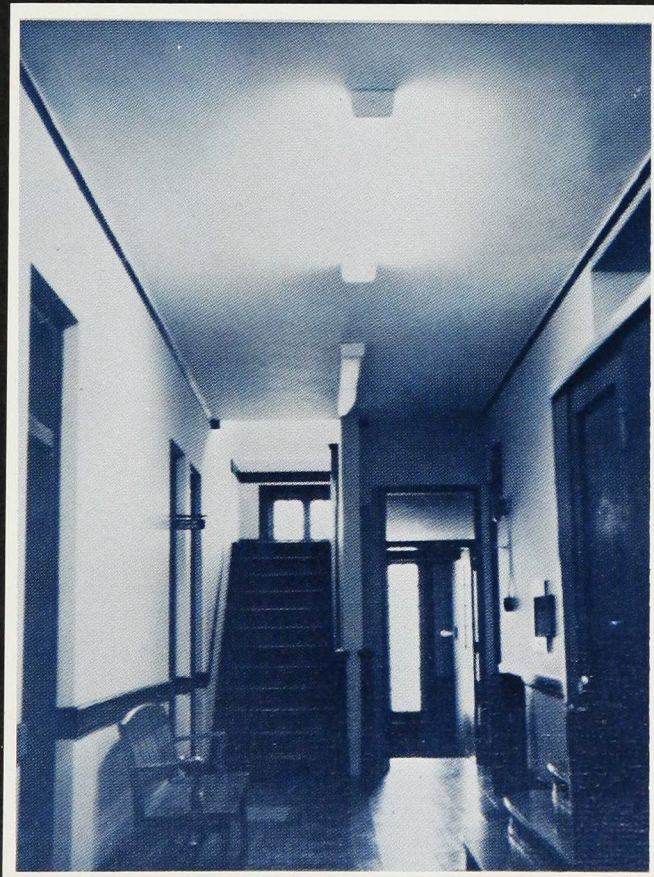

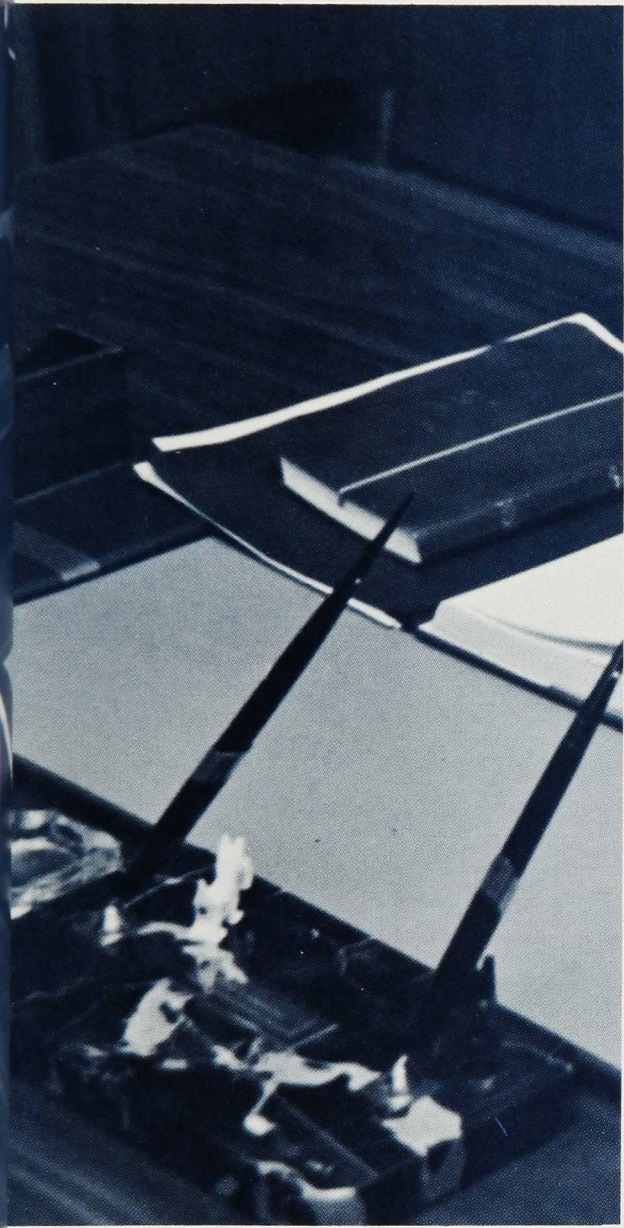

Edward F. Robinson
Professor of History

President Rath's Message

Is it too simple to say that an educational institution has the task of teaching the worth in ideas and in people?

NOT—how much more can I earn or how much wiser will I be, but to what and to whom will I belong? What ideas will dominate my thoughts and behavior, and what world of persons will think of me as its own?

Perhaps Dag Hammarskjöld, Secretary General of the United Nations, killed in Africa in 1961 was thinking just such thoughts when he wrote in his diary, published under the title Markings:

“Only he deserves power who every day justifies it”.

... who best bear his mild yoke, they serve him best ...

John Milton

His time with us was short, but he learned the true meaning of life. He knew himself and his Maker.

To those who knew him well he was happy and always friendly—wearing a smile. To all, his name was associated with his prominent position—as valedictorian of our class and as a campus leader.

A MESSAGE OF CONGRATULATIONS

Four years ago you entered upon an intensive dedication to the development of the unique qualities of man. These qualities, which include the ability to reason, the ability to create and the ability to love, have given greater meaning to your human existence.

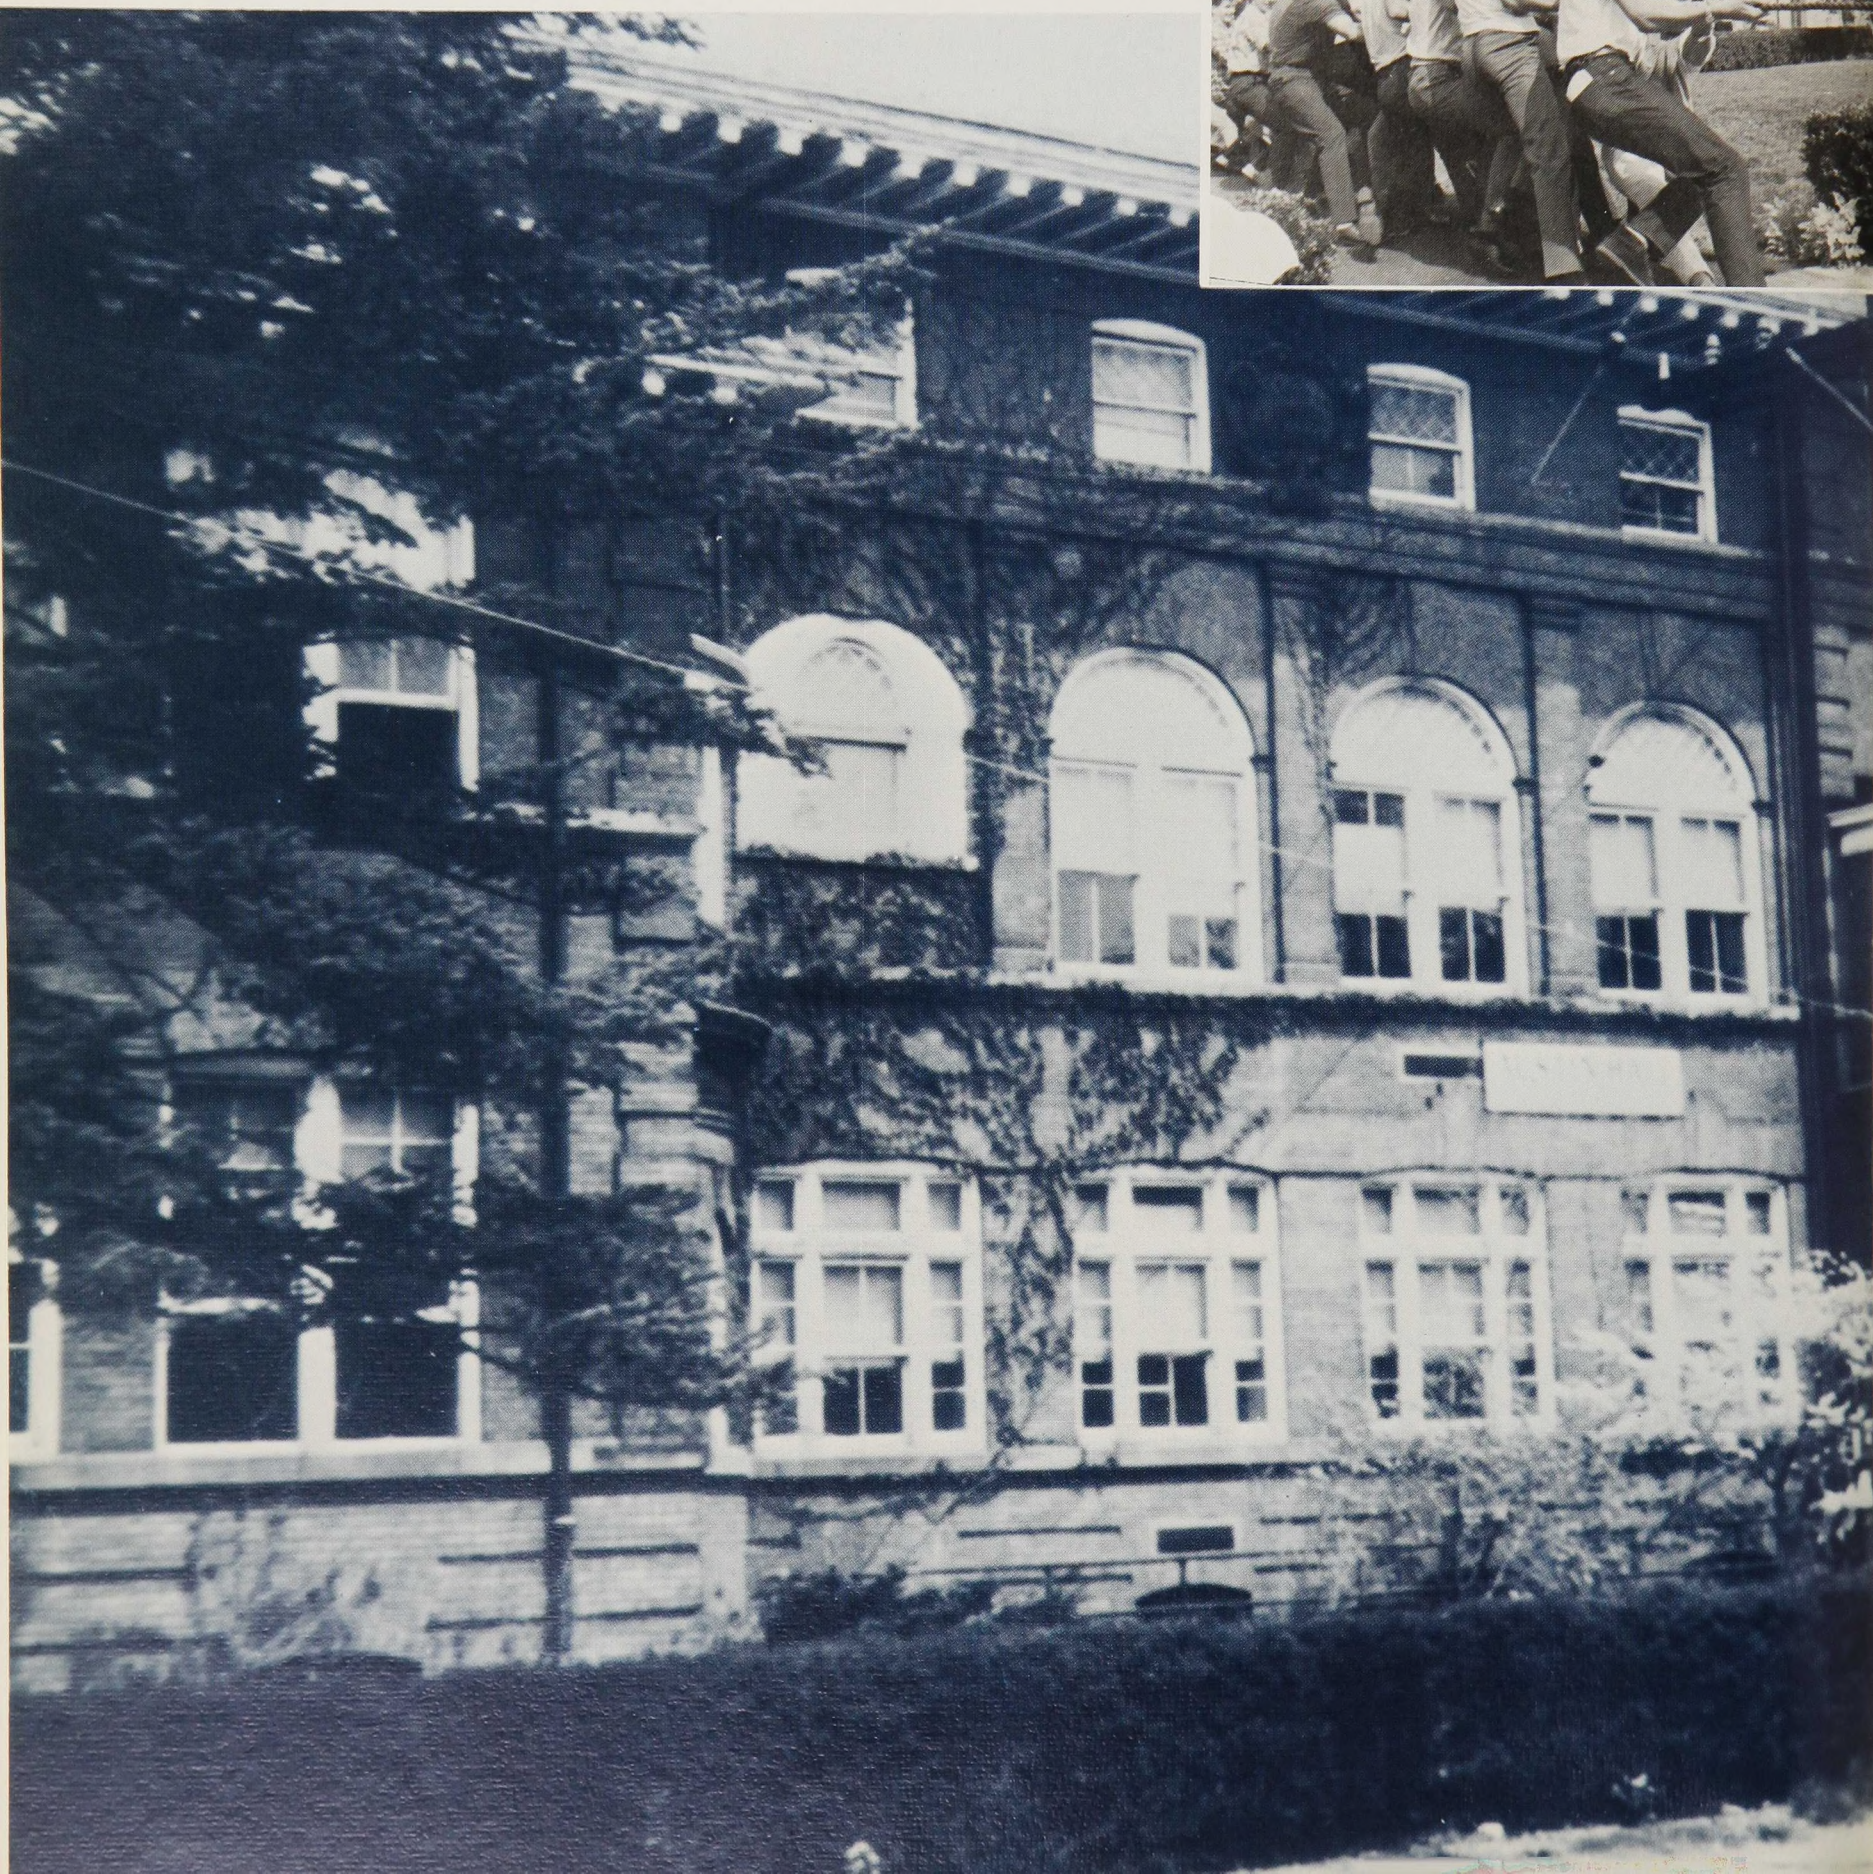

You have arrived — Now you must build.

In this endeavor you have my sincere concern and heartfelt good wishes.

Editor's Message

As in Gestalt psychology, the whole, or totality, is more important than the parts. The Saga could not exist without the entire staff functioning as a single unit with a common goal—the presentation of a yearbook of which the entire College Community could be proud.

For the many evenings they spent in the office producing this annual, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to a number of people. To Janice Hopkins, who willingly took over the task of assistant editor, along with the headaches of laying out a yearbook which our publisher has entered as a regional sample, I am greatly in debt. To Maxine Boatwright, who saw to the typing, proofreading and other odd jobs that would otherwise have been left undone, I extend my thanks. To Bob White, who coordinated the financial aspects as well as being photography editor, and to Dean David O. Roberts, without whose technical assistance I could not have functioned, my thanks.

Also, posthumous recognition must be paid to the late Barry Chase who organized "Saga '66". Barry spent many tireless and anxious hours during the summer and even through his earlier hospitalization seeing that plans were progressing smoothly.

On behalf of the entire Saga staff, may I take this opportunity to wish each and everyone success and fulfillment in the years ahead.
